WHAT WE WILL BE TEACHING IN 5 DAYS

Skin Anatomy & Clean up

Epidermis, the outermost layer of skin, provides a waterproof barrier and creates our skin tone. Dermis, beneath the epidermis, contains tough connective tissue, hair follicles, and sweat glands. Face cleaning is important to have a bright, glowing skin.

Normal Facial

A facial is a family of skin care treatments for the face, including steam, exfoliation, extraction, creams, lotions, facial masks, peels, and massage. They are used for general skin health as well as for specific skin conditions.

Microderma Polish Facial

Microderma facial is a process that exfoliates, polishes, and increases the lymphatic drainage of skin. It uses a gentle vacuum to bring your skin in contact with crystals that gently remove the top layer of dead skin. It can be used to help treat various skin conditions such as acne, Comedones (blackheads), and dull or rough skin.

Peels and Cupping Facial

Chemical solution is applied to the skin, which makes it "blister" and eventually peel off. The new skin is usually smoother and less wrinkled than the old skin. Cupping is an alternative therapy that uses suction cups to stimulate your skin and muscles. It can be done on your face or body. The suction promotes increased blood circulation, which may help relieve muscle tension, promote cell repair, and aid in other regeneration.

Hydra Facial

HydraFacial is a medical-grade resurfacing treatment that clears out your pores, plus it hydrates your skin. It is one of the most popular in-office facial treatments right now. So popular that one is performed every 15 seconds around the world.
